Dear mo. Bitch,

It's been a crazy year & we've gone through a lot. next year we will be Seniors. We might as well get a hard start on seniwitis.

No more band room jokes & FEASTS. John David's BIG FINGERS & TICK-TACS are still on my mind. I may (I don't remember what I was gonna say)

Athena,

it's been another year in french and any other classes we've been in. It's been fun and I'm glad we're still really good friends. Remember your cake battle from last year and all the good times we've had. See you next year.

Love,
jen

Athena,

Hey ice-cream lady? How you doing? Thanks for all the free ice cream! It was good. You're a great friend, I only wish you were in more of my classes. Oh well! we're finally Seniors! Yay! Keep chasing guys! Love
John

Athena,

Had fun with you in Algebra.
To bad I didn't pass.

Well anyway, have a good summer.

Kori

Athena,

I'm glad I got to know you better this year. Even though we had sore gym together it was still fun. Good luck next year when we'll be big seniors,
Have a great summer

Your friend
Carol

Athena, no more well, physics! Thank God!!! Good luck in whatever you do in the future

Anyway, life without you would have pretty boring. Dirty jokes were the best & my experience w/ Mitch was really "the joke of the year," I may consider returning back to J.D.?
Don't hate but he's really changed.
Don't worry I won't get into a lot of trouble, but I will have fun

P.S.
Let's make a promise to get together during the summer!
(DYKE!)

See ya soon,
into the summer,
stay sweet

P.S.S.
Let's have a feast next year.

Dear Athena,
 Well another year has gone by
 and we only have one more left. So I did LHS.
 This summer we got our senior pictures taken. I can't believe that ~~we~~ we are almost out of high school. It so sad. Well of junior year was filled of ups & downs for both of us. Let's make senior the best of High School
 Love ya like a sis
 Mandy

Athena,
 It's been a long year, but it's finally over. Thank goodness!
 French has been fun & you've added a lot to the excitement.
 Don't ever change! Have a great Summer & I'll see you next year.

Love ya,
Melanie

Athena, ~~Bye~~ It has been great knowing you and being your friend.
 Good luck in your schooling and with the guys. Stay away from Physics ~~at~~ next year.

CORD

Athena,
 Well it's been "different" having you in all those classes this year. I suppose I'll see you next year, but if I'm lucky I won't, (just joking)
 at least no more History.
 Well I can't think of anything else to say. Best of Luck next year I know you'll need it!!

Best Always,

The multi-colored fragments reflect to form the brilliant image of the kaleidoscope. In the same way that the colors combine in the kaleidoscope the various feelings, ideas, interests and goals of the people at Lakewood High School unite to form the overall picture of the school. Somehow the striking yellows, reds, and greens consistently manage to overcome the dull grays and blues, to leave us with feelings of a bright, spectacular kaleidoscope. It is these feelings which the class of 1986 will be left with as they leave Lakewood High School upon graduation.

Every minute, every day, and every week, the design of the kaleidoscope changes to fit each moment. A simple turn of the kaleidoscope brings a new and exciting phase to the lives at Lakewood High School. As the senior class graduates and a new class enters, the kaleidoscope takes on a new and distinct pattern. The pattern of 1986 will never be repeated. Fads, ideas, and faces change as does the kaleidoscope. Best of luck to all future seniors, and a fond farewell to the class of 1986.

Dear Graduates:

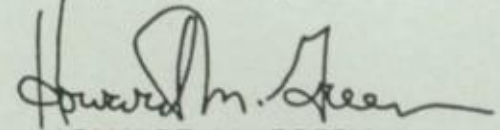

Congratulations to our graduates! Each of you has reached a departure point for the rest of your life.

In the process, you have grown, had fun and agony, tears of joy and sorrow and have contributed to Lakewood High School's continued growth. Perhaps, that is the one lasting contribution each of us can make — that our being here has made a positive contribution, has made life better for others. You did!

I pray that you continue to enjoy the happiness you have brought to others, the success represented by your graduation, the respect for all people you've shown, and long lives to share in good health with your families and friends.

Thank you!

Very truly yours,

HOWARD M. GREEN

Principal, Lakewood High School

Dear Friends,

Through the years that we have been together, many friendships have developed, grown, or faded. Each June dozens of people sign yearbooks and pledge to keep in touch; "friends forever" is one of the more popular phrases. If we were to re-read the messages from our previous yearbooks, we'd realize that many of the so-called "friends forever" have not been heard from since the day they signed our book.

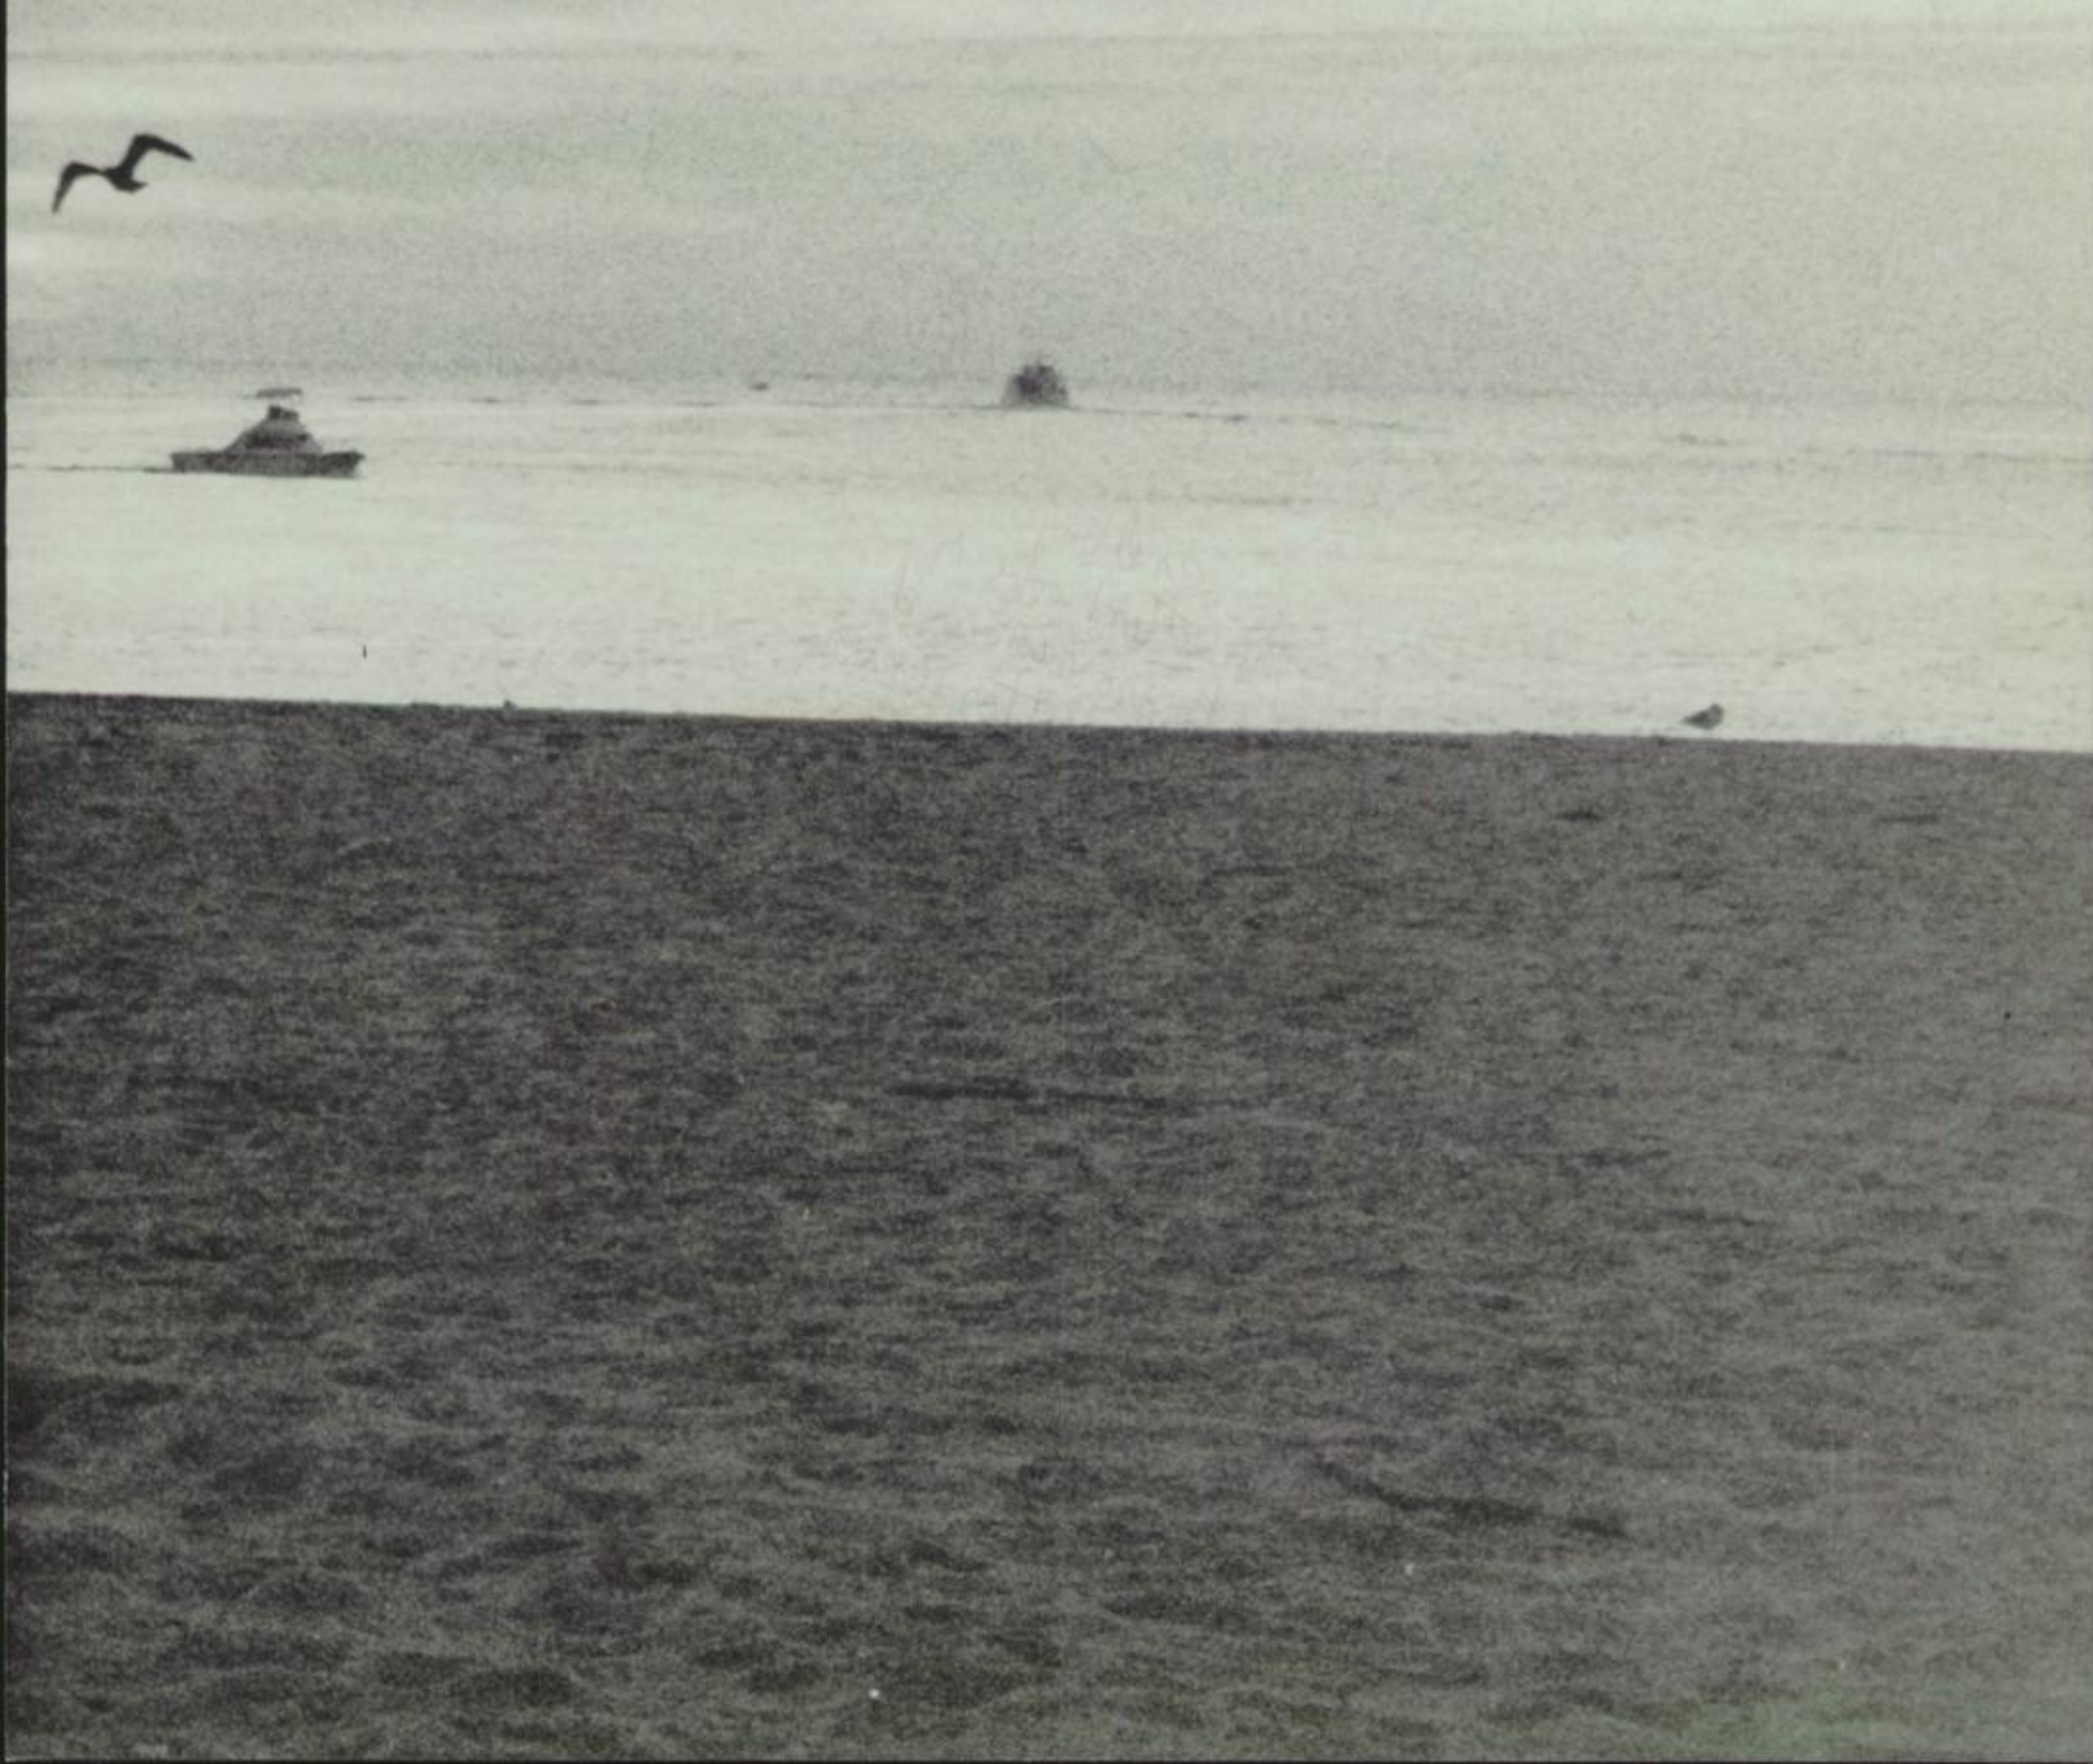

The friendships formed during our high school years are unique in every way: the way they began, the experiences which were shared, and the closeness that has come about as a result of these make high school friendships quite special. Graduation is the last opportunity that the Class of 1986 has to be together. Now is the time to renew the faded friendships and to promise to keep in touch; by promise I mean to truly keep in touch. It would be a shame if we let our lives simply go their separate ways.

We have worked hard and have worked together to reach the point we are at — graduation! Congratulations to the entire Class of 1986 and good luck in all you do. I hope this yearbook will help you to keep your high school memories and friendships alive.

In friendship,

Erika Bach

*Athena,
Well we both passed that hist. class. Remember when we were both worried about not passing it at the beginning of the year. We did it, the first was easy also,
I'm just glad she stopped grading

Activities

PINE NEEDLE ANNUAL

The Editor-in-Chief . . . Erika Bach . . . spends countless hours organizing the staff and planning the course which is taken in assembling the yearbook. She works with the section editors so only the best of everything goes into the yearbook. The work never seems to end, yet it is all worth it when the book is finally published.

The Advisor . . . Mr. MacFarland . . . supports and directs every decision, answers every question. The advisor guides the editors and staff through the creation of a yearbook. The amount of time he spends helping the staff is enormous. Whenever he is needed he can be found standing right behind us in support.

Layout Editor . . . Jami Haas . . . decides and designs the pattern of each page. Where pictures should be placed in respect to the copy, or the write-ups, is not an easy task. The layout editor is involved with every page of the yearbook and thus plays a major role in the total creative process.

Student Life and Design Editor . . . Pam Giambo . . . Student Life — thirty pages which must cover the lives of every student at L.H.S. The theme pages explain the ideas behind the book and must help to carry these feelings through all 212 pages. All artwork, including the cover, was designed by Pam.

Underclass and Sports Editor . . . Dawn Yoskowitz . . . Organizing and naming the pictures of all the underclassmen, over 1,000, is quite time-consuming and tedious, as is writing about every team, keeping track of their scores, and naming all the players.

The deadlines arrive and fifty pages are due; in three weeks we'll owe another fifty. We want to make improvements over last year's book, but in order to do so, we must sell thousands of dollars worth of ads in order to afford them. There are many things to take into account with each decision. The days go by quite quickly and the deadlines arrive faster than we are able to work; we remember that late deadlines mean a late yearbook. We then imagine what it would be like to have everyone receive their yearbooks in September, 1986 rather than in June; so we work harder. This type of pressure began the second we started the yearbook during the summer of 1985, and did not end until everyone had a book. Why do we put all this time and energy into our yearbook? Because 10, 20, 30, even 50 years from now, our high school yearbook will be among our class' most prized possessions. A yearbook is a sort of time capsule. The feelings, thoughts, ideas, and actions of 1986 will never exist again, except within the pages of this book. The kaleidoscope is forever changing as we are. This yearbook is, as its theme proclaims, the Kaleidoscope of 1986; it displays all that is typical of our high school days. This kaleidoscope is of memories; memories which will be kept alive in its pages. This was our objective, and this is our gift to the class of 1986 and all of L.H.S. Never forget the Kaleidoscope which is alive in '86.

National Honor Society

The members of the National Honor Society represent the top 12% of the senior class. Students are chosen in two groups: the top 6% in the spring of the junior year, and the remainder of the 12% in the fall of the senior year. Academic achievement makes one eligible for faculty review. Teachers judge the students on service, character, and leadership, as displayed in the students extracurricular activities. The students who rank high enough on the review are then accepted into National Honor Society. This process, although long and detailed, assures that only deserving individuals are inducted into the group. The National Honor Society is an organization anyone would be proud to be a part of. President: J. Bryce, Vice-President: L. Schiraldi, Treasurer: M. Feld, Secretary: L. Wenslauskas, Advisor: Ms. Morelli.

Serving as a voice on school affairs, the Student Government Association is comprised of students who are elected by their peers. If a problem arises in L.H.S. the S.G.A. makes sure the administration knows about it. In 1986 the group was very effective when an A.I.D.S. scare threatened a walkout of the student body. A meeting was set up between Mr. Green and the S.G.A. The organization voiced the students fears and a rap-session between Mr. Green and the alarmed students followed. All rumors were dispelled and harmony was restored to our halls. Each student feels at ease knowing that they have some say in what goes on around them. The S.G.A. delivers that feeling.

The English Club is an organization comprised of over 200 students; its heart, as shown in the picture, is the English Club homeroom. Its popularity is well-deserved for it is extremely active in both community and interscholastic projects. The club takes several trips to smaller theaters to see play such as Can Can and As You Like It, and the year is highlighted by an annual trip to New York City to see a Broadway production. These enjoyable activities do not come without much hard work. The club members actively participate in community projects. Long hours were spent at the Parish Center when the English Club aided the Deborah Heart Foundation in its Chinese Auction. Lunch periods were sacrificed so that the club members could sell wrestling tickets for the Y.M.C.A. The English club also helped the Lakewood Public Library in its annual book sale. All of this hard work and group effort has earned the club both the esteem of the school community and a sense of pride among its membership. President: E. Bach; Senior Vice-Presidents: C. Hiley and J. Lee; Vice Presidents: P. Currie and K. Steinmetz; Treasurer: N. Guempel.

Announcements

Left to Right: N. Sharon, R. Nussbaum, R. Tapper, E. Bach, M. Feld, D. Zellerkraut.

Each morning homeroom begins with the wide-awake and cheerful voice of one of the students involved in English Club's announcement committee. It's not easy, but somehow these students manage to keep a straight voice and read even the most tongue-twisted announcements with what seems like the greatest of ease. Although these students many times go unrecognized, their contribution to every school day is greatly appreciated.

Girls' and Boys' States

During the spring of the junior year, teachers submit recommendations for Boys' and Girls' States. Those considered to be among the best in character and leadership are chosen to attend a week-long conference, separately of course, at Rider College during the summer prior to their senior year. The week is spent learning about various governments and ideas. Students begin by running for local offices, and by the conclusion of the program, a governor is elected and all are more knowledgeable on the subject of state government. At the end of Girls' State, Governor Kean visited the closing ceremony and praised both the project and the students. Sponsored by the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary, Boys' and Girls' States are truly an experience to remember.

Latin Club

This year's Latin Club has enjoyed one of its largest memberships. The club is concerned with the promotion of Latin and the preservation of Roman studies. They sponsor one event per month that has something to do with Roman culture. Their activities range from a toga party in the fall, to a carnival in the winter, to a Julius Caesar Memorial Service in March. The club also sponsors an annual talent show that is one of the school's largest fundraising activities. Many club members are also active members in the the New Jersey Junior Classical League. This organization promotes Latin on a State level. Presidents: J. Ashen, G. Buckholz, Vice-President: P. Gill, Secretary: L. Schiraldi, Treasurer: M. Luttrell.

Latin Honor Society

The Latin Honor Society is a new group formed only in 1984. Members are inducted after being reviewed by the advisor, Mr. Kirschner, and by society officers. Members must maintain A's and B's throughout their studies and they must show an interest to continue in the field of Latin through college. The honor society promotes Latin in the middle schools of the area. Members encourage new students to enroll and study Latin, and they also offer a tutoring service to those who need it. President: R. Fraher.

Standing: L. Schiraldi. Kneeling: R. Fraher, D. Yoskowitz. Sitting: M. Luttrell, J. Ashen.

German Club

The Lakewood High School German Club has very active members who sustain German and European Culture in Lakewood. All members promote German and its attributes. Each individual in the club is responsible for generating spirit among the other members. In the fall the club has a Oktoberfest, which is a German festival complete with ethnic foods and music. Every year they have a Christmas party, also with German style. The club goes to New York City each year to view different German Art or Music exhibits, and to learn more about German Culture. Very often competition arises between the German Club and other organizations. Rather than fight, however, the German club plays in volleyball tournaments against the French and Spanish Clubs of our school. President: J. Smith, Vice-President: K. Zierold, Secretary: K. Zierold, Treasurer: K. Duncan.

German Honor Society

The German Honor Society is comprised of students who have proven their interest and ability in the study of the German language. Each December students in German IV who have excelled in the language and have expressed their interest in the German culture are inducted into the Delta Epsilon Phi chapter of the German Honor Society. Aside from their annual trip to New York City, the club's activities basically revolve around those of the German Club. President: E. Bach, Vice-President; L. Schenendorf, Secretary; M. The Lakewood High School French Club, is created to keep French Culture alive in our community. Led by advisor Felix Sicliano, the group goes out and sees many exhibits showing French art. This year they have seen the Toulouse — Lautrec exhibit in the Modern Museum of Art and the Frick Collection, which is a collection of antique French furniture. They have also seen exhibits in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. Club members also attended an updated version of a classic American ballet, Slaughter on Tenth Avenue, as well as concerts of Rossini and Stravinsky. The club supports itself through fundraising, paying for all of its activities through sales of donuts and M & M's. President: S. Cox; Vice President: V. Celen-tano; Secretary: T. Troy; Treasurer: J. Thompson.

French Honor Society

Those third and fourth year French students who have excelled in their studies are inducted into the French Honor Society. This group, the oldest of the four language honor societies, partakes in all French Club activities, but the high achievement of these students merits recognition as a separate organization. President: A. Boyarin, Vice-President: G. Calabro, Secretary: L. Kay, Treasurer: C. Hiley, Advisor: Mr. Sicliano.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club, under the direction of Mrs. Gonzalez and Mr. Jacques, helps students who are interested in the Spanish language and culture. The club provides its members with a greater opportunity to study the many aspects of the language. Spanish Club contributes a great deal to the cultural development of Lakewood High School. President: L. Wenslauskas; Vice-President: C. Baetiong; Treasurer: S. Zwick; Secretary: K. Cousins.

Key Club

The Key Club, under the direction of Mr. Alan Scott, is a community-oriented organization. With projects such as the canned food drive during Thanksgiving the club is geared towards helping those less fortunate in our community. The organization is quite active in school projects as well. Each year Key Club organizes a dance and also several members join the National Honor Society in the building of the bonfire. The Key Club is a well-rounded organization which is helpful in the successful development of both the school and the community. President: E. Younger, Vice President: L. Yeager; Treasurer: T. 4-H

The Lakewood High School 4-H club is a community organization. They do many things for local charities and children. During the Christmas season they combine their efforts and make stockings and toys for needy children. They also concern themselves with the ecology of our town and its preservation. They belong to the Ocean County Agricultural Society. They also fight to save and improve the small world in and around Lakewood High School. Their efforts are usually met with successful results and they are all greatly appreciated by the student body.

Radio Club

The group of students who form the Lakewood High School Radio Club spend most of their time studying Morse code. Once they have mastered this skill they begin to work with Ham Radios. They talk on Ham Radio stations and receive messages from around the country. They all work towards a common goal: they all wish to acquire a Ham radio license which will allow them to broadcast and receive broadcasts worldwide.

Fine Arts Enrichment

There are many talented and artistic students in Lakewood High School. The Fine Arts Enrichment Club is made up of these talented students. They all stay after school and work for hours perfecting their artistic skills. Their efforts can be seen all over the school. At Christmas, they were responsible for the beautiful stained glass windows in the art wing of the school. Their innovative ideas about art are seen in and around our school. Many display cases, at one point or another during the year, were filled with their original art.

Dramatic Arts Club

The Lakewood High School Dramatic Arts Club, under the direction of Mr. Glen Picone, has always presented challenging dramatic material to its audience. This year was no exception as Waiting for Godot was added to their list of productions that includes such classics as Antigone and Seascape. This year's club members have also ventured into television with two 1985 productions that can be seen on Lakewood's T.V. channel 8. President: S. Cox; Vice-President: J. Gaines; Secretary: P. Dance Club

The Dance Club is a new edition to Lakewood High School. Many students who have pursued the art of dancing outside of school are now able to experience the exhilaration of dance as an extracurricular activity. With the help of their advisor, A. Corenblith, the club choreographs their own performances. There is no lead dancer, as each member is equally talented in her specific form of dance. The club performs jazz, modern, and classical dance routines. Dance club opens to new member each September and offers to teach people with "two left feet" how to dance.

Stage Band

The L.H.S. Stage Band is a select group of young musicians dedicated to performing various jazz selections. These students dedicate long hours to practice, in search of absolute perfection. The band not only performs at several school functions, but is also in attendance at a series of competitions at which they always score well. Each fall the group goes to Atlantic City to perform at the New Jersey Education Association's Annual Conference. The Stage Band has won several awards in the past such as Best Trumpet Line, Best Trombone Line and various soloist awards. Great talent and dedication goes into this group, producing the sense of pride which is a Stage band tradition.

Travel Choir

The Travel Choir under the direction of Mr. James Meagher consists of students who have a natural ability to perform, as well as serious vocal talent. It is an honor to participate in this activity, for it represents the school on several occasions. Christmas is the highlight of their season, when they go caroling to various locations in Lakewood, including several convalescent centers. The choir appeared on Channel 8 with carols and solos.

At the mention of the name of the club — Future Business Leaders of America — one conjures up images of stuffy students in three-piece suits. However, this organization not only teaches students about business; it is a community group which does a large amount of fund raising for charity. Over the course of the year F.B.L.A. has raised money for the Statue of Liberty, for unfortunate families at Christmas, and for the Leukemia Foundation. Each member set up correspondence with a person who was shut in because of illness or age. Members attended a leadership conference at Rider College in January and a Regional Conference in Great Gorge in April.

The Distributive Education Club of America teaches students the trials and tribulations of running a business. Students in this club get first-hand experience by operating the student store. This store supplies L.H.S. students with basic school needs. It is also a gift shop filled with stuffed animals, greeting cards and the small knick-knacks. All money made from this enterprise goes to the support of the school and its activities.

Math Team

The Lakewood High School math team is composed of very bright students who compete with other schools. The team is not only a part of the Ocean County Math League, but also part of the New Jersey Math League. Every month the team faces other schools and takes a forty minute test; each student strives for a perfect score and top honors. To excel in sports, one must exercise and work their body to the limit. In Lakewood we not only have teams that work physically, we have teams that work push themselves to an intellectual borderline; this is the Lakewood High School Math Team. President: R. Fraher.

Assembly Committee

Comprised of only a handful of students, the Assembly Committee successfully performs the great task of organizing school assemblies. Every one of Lakewood's 1,578 students attend the various assemblies. It is the responsibility of this group to quickly usher the large audience to their seats so that the assembly may begin. The Assembly Committee tends to go unrecognized but they do perform a great service. It is because of them that students are able to enjoy the assemblies. Chairperson: T. Gobar

The genesis of something is its birth. This year's literary magazine, Genesis, is a rebirth; a resurfacing of an art form which had been buried in Lakewood High School's past. It took a group effort, led by Mrs. Iris Barad, to dig up and reestablish the magazine. Many talented students contribute their poetry, stories, and artwork to this seasonal journal. When Mrs. Barad was asked who was outstanding among her creative students, she replied that no one student was above another; each individual contributed equally to the publication. So, to many a student's surprise, the once-absent literary magazine is now anything but a buried fossil. Editor-in-Chief: M. Deutsch.

The Pine Needle Monthly is one of Lakewood High School's journalistic outlets. The newspaper is staffed with very capable students. The publication is supposed to be a monthly periodical; however, a change of staff and advisors over the past two years has made it difficult for more than 3 or 4 issues per year. The P.N.M. is the eyes, ears, and voice of L.H.S., keeping students informed about their school. It even contains a little more than facts. The editorial page has often filled the students ears with outrageous but interesting opinions. Every morning the staff can be seen in their homeroom working hard to keep L.H.S. well-informed. Editor-in-Chief: B. Goldstein.

Chess Club

Among the most ancient and intellectually demanding forms of human competition, chess is alive and well in Lakewood. The Chess Club, sponsored by Mr. Walsh, provides the framework from which the LHS Chess Team is chosen. The team competed in the 23-member Shore Chess League; in only its second year of competition, the LHS squad finished second in the Southern Division and qualified for the prestigious playoff round. Outstanding for Lakewood were first board Erik Collazo, whose 7-2-3 record won him Most Valuable Player honors for the Southern Division, and Hong-Fu Wo, whose 11-1-0 record was also the best in the division at second board. Other team members were Greg Bernstein (third board), Robby DiFrancesco (fourth board), and Darren Sutton (fifth board). All but Callazo return for the 1986-87 season.

Stamp Club

The Lakewood High School Stamp Club is formed of tomorrow's philatelists. They collect foreign stamps in good, bad or mint condition, study foreign postmarks, and check the value of their stamps. They collect first day issues, which are envelopes marked with a special seal on the very first day the stamps are minted. Many foreign correspondences are set up while the accumulation of foreign stamps take place. They take trips to conventions and to see stamp exhibits. They trade their stamps among one another and with other schools.

In Lakewood High School there is an organization whose primary function is to enable students of all races and creeds to be cognizant of the heritage and contributions of black people to our present society. Their efforts result in the enlightenment of many students. The entire school learns about black people who are important during February, which is Black History Month. The Afro-American Society, along with the administration, sets up assemblies where prominent black men and women come to speak to our students. The club is led by advisor Imogene Cross and is open to students of all races and creeds. President: B. Worthy; Vice-President: R. Thomas.

The Lakewood High School Gospel Choir is comprised of some very talented students. The group is open to anyone who wishes to audition. The choir's advisor, Mrs. T. Peters, prepares the arrangements. She calls together many rehearsals so that the students sound polished and professional. The selections they sing range from hymns to jazzy renditions of popular Gospel music. The choir performs every Christmas and in February for Black History Month. They also perform in the spring concert along with other groups from the Lakewood High School Fine Arts Department. President: R. Thomas; Vice-President: P. Barlow; Corresponding Secretary: T. Troy; Recording Secretary: T. Harris; Treasurer: S. Savage.

Foreign Students Club

The diverse cultures of Lakewood High School often make it difficult for some students to fit in. The Foreign Student Club creates a positive school and community environment by helping to solve cultural problems and aiding the adjustment of students. The organization aids many students who feel out of place and need something to reassure them. The advisor, Mr. Walsh, has a goal to bridge the gap between the foreign and American students. This club helps him achieve that goal because each member supports the next.

Library Guild

The Library Guild of L.H.S. keeps our Media Center running smoothly. They perform many clerical duties, from checking out books to checking attendance lists. They are very important because their efforts give the librarians time to aid other students who need help in their pursuit of knowledge. The guild also helps the library staff before the library is officially open in September and after it closes in June. They take inventory, rearrange shelves, write up necessary lists and make sure everything is organized and ready for students in need of information.

Marching Band

Made up of 102 dedicated members, the Lakewood High School Marching Band provides entertainment at either pregame or halftime at the football games. In addition they compete against many other bands in the 400 member Tournament of Bands Association along the East Coast. The band works many hours during the summer and after school to make the show the best it can possibly be. For this season, the band took a totally different approach. Unlike the normal "jazz show" the show was based on Respighi's "Feste Romane." Basically, the show is Roman, depicting many aspects of Roman life. To add to the effect, the front was dressed up in togas and drum major Liz Wenslauskas was brought out on a litter in the ancient Roman tradition. The band competed at many places, including Steinert, Jackson, Brick Memorial, Carteret, and Edison. For the first time ever, the band took Best Overall Band at the Brick Memorial competition. At the Chapter X Championship, which was held at Lakewood High School, the band scored a 75.1. This enabled them to compete in the Atlantic Coast Championship, where they scored a 77.25. The band planned a spring trip to Niagara, Canada, to take part in the Niagara Blossom Festival. This year's drum majors were Mike Feld, Elizabeth Wenslauskas, and Karl Zierold. They kept up the winning drum major tradition by winning many Best Drum Majors, including Best Drum Major, Chapter X. Captains for this year were Bonnie Lovenberg (Flags), Lissette Nunez (Poms), and Jennifer Derrig (Rifles). Most of the credit must go to the directors who made the season very successful. They are Mr. Dennis Kline, Mrs. Evelyn Kline, Mr. Erwin Liss, Ms. Amy Farkas, Mr. Pat Petrillo, Mr. Jeff Zellerkraut, and Mr. Joe Szabo. The band members will always be grateful for the support of the directors, parents, students, and faculty.

Piner Strength

This year's soccer team went 12-5-1 and finished second behind Monsignor Donovan in Class B South. Three strong players stood above the rest this season: Senior Joe Bryce; Junior Danny "Magic" Lindner; and Sophomore Tony Soto. All three were all-conference team selections. Lindner and Bryce were members of the All-County team, and Lindner was placed on the All-Shore team as well. Danny Lindner was also chosen as Ocean County's player of the year. The team scored a big win over Wall, which was a threat in the beginning of the season. They advanced to the state tournament but lost their second game. The team will lose a crucial member of their defense when senior Jacob Cotler graduates this year. Their defense must be patched up before next season when they move up to the rugged Class A South.

Pride for the Piners

The Lakewood High School football team had a good season despite the appearance of their record. Often our Piners had victory snatched from them in the very last seconds of a game. Who could forget our first game at Point Boro? With less than one minute left, the score was in our favor, but the win was stolen from us with seconds on the clock. This was a year of development for our team. Quarterback Billy Gee, only a junior, had a lot to learn and he steadily improved through the season until our last game — homecoming! Considering the Piners had not beaten Toms River South in years, and considering Toms River South was a contender in the state tournament, hopes ran low in Lakewood. However, our Piner team pulled together and earned a 15-14 victory over South. Aside from our homecoming victory, the Piners scored a major upset and won against highly ranked Manasquan. Many of the players earned recognition during the season. James Wilder made first team All-Ocean, Ricky Royle and Richard Morgan both made second team All-Ocean, and Billy Gee made third team All-Ocean.

B South Champs

This year the girls' tennis team earned the well-deserved title of Shore Conference B South Champions. The team pulled together at crucial moments when winning a match meant another step towards the championship. Junior Michelle Venditto paced the singles with a personal 13-5 record, while sophomore Shanyna Busto and freshman Debbie Shelton led in doubles with a scintillating 15-2 edge on opponents. Overall the team had a season record of 15-2, and eight of their wins were shutouts. They competed in the state tournament but were defeated in the second game. Girls tennis at Lakewood has established a winning tradition; the youth of this team should enable them to continue it.

State Champions

This year the boys cross country team ran away with top honors. Most of these honors were earned by the team's key member, Herbie Williams.

Williams is a senior and has been running track for four years. All of his hard work has been well worth it. In 1986 he won the titles of Shore Conference, Ocean County, and South Jersey Group III State Champion. While Williams was the team's top runner, he was not solely responsible for the group's 9-0 season. Other contributing runners were junior Jack Boylan and sophomore Efrain Rivas. Solid and consistent the two of them helped the group to their fantastic finish. But, in all, ten feet carried the group across the finish line to an undefeated season.

The girls cross country team did much more than run in circles this year. With a record of 7-2 the girls placed in the top five teams from South Jersey Sectionals Group III. Since they closed the season with a conference record of 5-1, they advanced to the state championships at Homdel, a considerable improvement over the winless season of 1985.

The bulk of the team is made up of sophomores. Senior Lisa Burkett was the only upper-classman on the team. The backbone of the group is sophomore, Geri-Lynn Buckholz, who has been running for many years in and out of school. Coach Sauls believes that his success will continue if he receives "help from P.E. teachers in pinpointing girls who have running potential."

The overall season has been one of improvement and success. The girls worked very hard and got fantastic results.

High on Spirit

1985 was a year of learning and growing for the Lakewood field hockey team. Short on players but not on spirit, the team closed the season with a 1-12-4 record. Being a basically a young team, they had to overcome many obstacles. Their record is not one of defeat but of determination. Without enough players to form a full team they competed anyway. They played hard and surprised many of their competitors. Their enthusiasm made them a winning team even if their record didn't. Co-captains Chelsea Brown and Carol Walters both return next year.

Super Seniors Pin Opposition

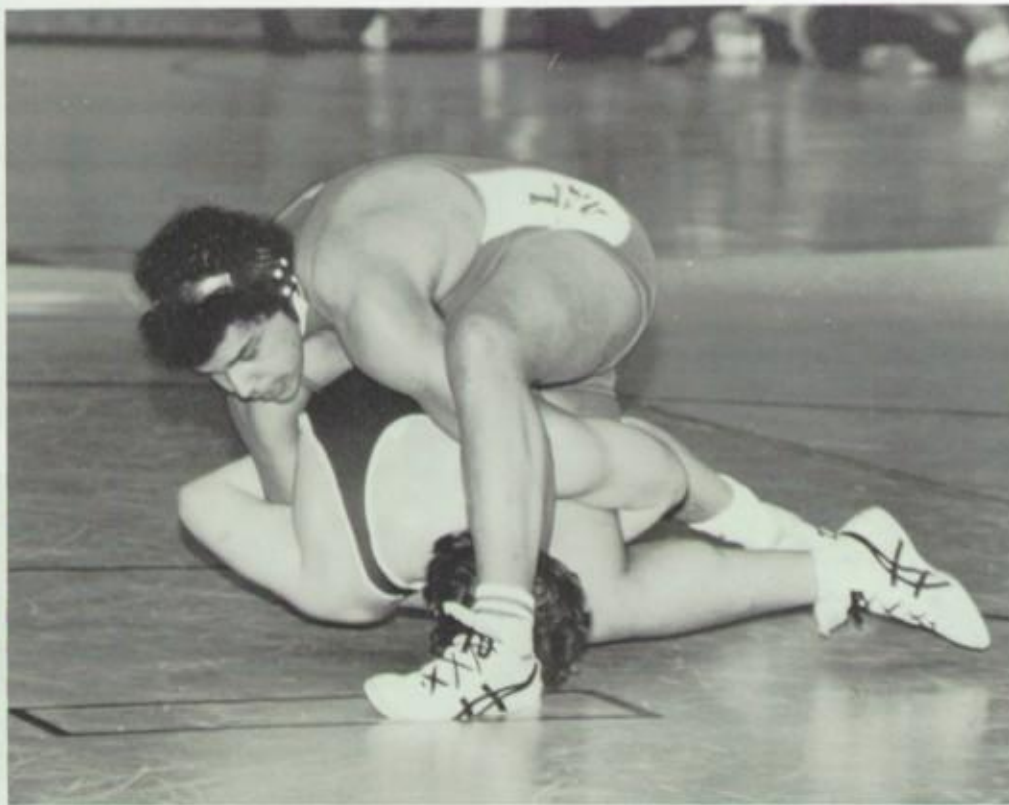

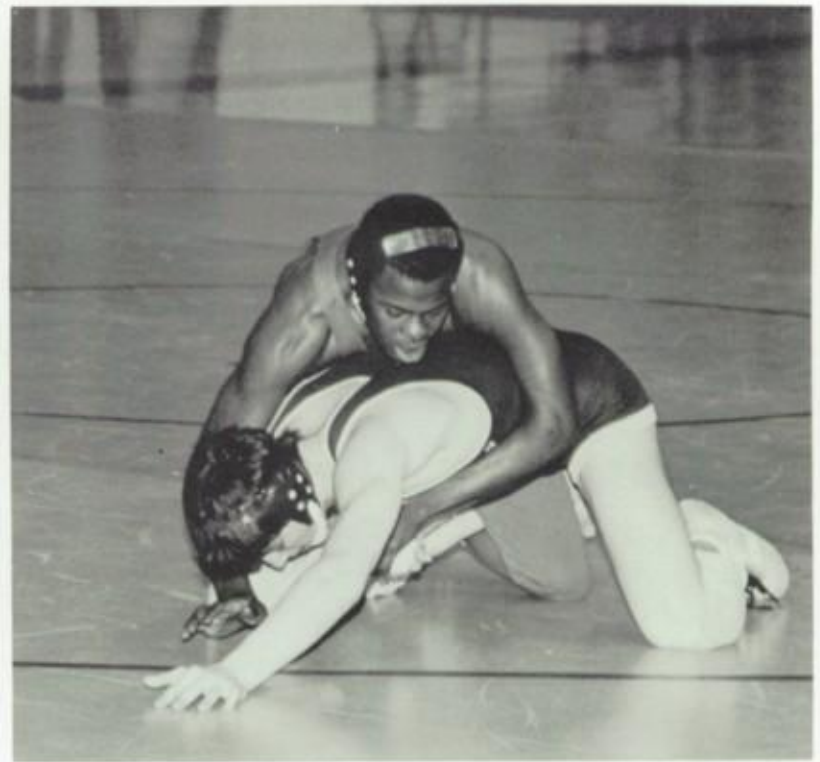

In 1986 the Piner wrestling team did very well with its super seniors. Their record, 4-9, misrepresents their efforts and successes. The three major tournaments this year were the Top of the East, the Neptune Classic, and the Indian Tournament. Senior, Erik Weidknect took second place in all three. Robert Busto, also a senior, placed second in the Top of the East and fourth in the other two. Last but not least, senior Leonard Thomas took second in the Indian and fourth in the Neptune Classic. Overall the season does not appear to be successful, however, individual triumphs make the entire team a success.

Striking Out to Win

The boys bowling team ruled the lanes in Ocean County this year. They had a season record of 16-5, which included three shut-outs.

If one bowler was named the best in 1986, it would be Jacob Vogel, better known as Kovi. Kovi had the team's highest game with a 290, the highest series with a 727, and the highest average with a 205.

The rest of the team did exceptionally well too. A team average of 941 put them above all of their competitors. An 1113 team game surpassed all other scores in Ocean County.

The determination and spirit of the Lakewood High School bowlers has allowed them to strike out and succeed.

In 1986 the Girls Bowling Team made a 700% improvement over last year, according to coach Monesson. They went from a 1-15 record in 1985 to a 7-14 record this year.

Three key players this year were senior Pam Giambo, junior Tracey Sussna, and sophomore Lori Haytas. Pam and Lori held the two highest scores with Pam's 211 and Lori's 215. Tracey had a 157 average which was the highest on her team and she had a high series of 514.

The team right now is basically made up of underclassmen, so who knows in years to come, the girls bowling team may beat their 700% upgrade from 1986.

Look out New Jersey Nets, the Lakewood Piners are coming on strong! With a 17-2 season record, our basketball team scored an average 79.4 points per game which was 10 points higher than their opponents' overall average.

There were many strong players but 3 team members stood above the rest: seniors John Brown, Harry Brown, and Tony Walker. John was the team's high scorer. He averaged 17.9 points per game and scored a spectacular 41 points against Monsignor Donovan on January 31. There is an old cliché that good things come in small packages; Harry Brown is small but he was a large asset to the team. This 5'4" pinner zoomed around the court, had his share of slam dunks, and averaged 8 points and 11 assists per game. Leading the team with a 9.8 rebound per game and an amazing 17 slam dunks, was Tony Walker. Aside from all of this, Tony shoots 80% from the foul line.

These three players, along with the rest of the Piner team, made the 1986 Basketball season memorable and exciting for the fans. They came in 2nd in the Shore Conference Tournament and lost in the finals by only 1 point. The team advanced to the State Tournament where they played like pros. No season will ever top 1986. Our team had tons of enthusiasm and a truckload of PMA!

Teamwork — the one word that can describe the Girls varsity basketball team. Players were asked who, out of the entire team, rose above the rest. Each member answered "No one, it's a group effort." Strike one up for the group efforts; our girls ended their season with an admirable 11-5 record and the championship of Shore Conference B South. Despite the fact that everyone worked hard, some people did excel. Senior JoAnn Powell and junior Carole Walters led the team in points per game. Senior Deanne Nafziger displayed leadership qualities that surpassed the average player. With another solid season under their belts, the girls basketball team is well on their way to establishing another winning tradition at Lakewood.

Piners Want 4th Crown

The Lakewood High School baseball team is the only Lakewood team that has won 3 state championships. This year Coach Liptzin and Coach Fry have high expectations and are keeping their eyes on a 4th state crown. Returning seniors to watch are Harry Brown who plays shortstop like a pro, and Joe Bryce, who is returning in 1986 and captain of the varsity team. Other players expected to excel are, junior Craig Edwards, who has been pitching varsity for 2 years, and sophomore Mike Tamburino, who may fill the shoes of Gary Goldenberg, 1985's star third baseman who graduated last year. Overall it should be a good season and everyone has high hopes. In the words of Coach Liptzin "Baseball is the ultimate game," especially when you win.

Spring is in the air and everyone's minds turn to outdoor sports: baseball, track, and golf. Golf, the forgotten sport of Lakewood High School. Unfortunately, the game and the team deserve a lot more credit than they receive. Golf takes skill, patience, and tons of practice. Have you ever tried to hit a two inch golf-ball into a four inch hole with a five inch club?

Returning to the tees this year are juniors Evan Shilling, Heath Gertner and Robert Tapper. Coach Brown can plan for a successful season and conference honors, with the '86 team.

The Next Favorite Pastime

Baseball may be America's favorite pastime, but in Lakewood, Girls' Softball is just as important as its male counterpart.

Returning to the diamond this year are seniors Lynn Miller and Laura Zitney, junior Carole Walters and sophomore Shanya Busto.

Coaches Sattan and McKelvy know the team will continue to succeed. Over the past two years the girls have played in the Shore Conference tournaments and made it to the state tournament. In 1985 they finished second in the Ocean County Tournament.

With the four veteran players and many new recruits, the girls softball team can't miss.

A New Tradition

As a recent addition to Lakewood High School's list of spring sports, girls' soccer proved they had the potential to begin a new winning tradition. Many of last year's novice sophomores returned to the field as experienced juniors. Tara Giddings at halfback, Kelly Cousins at goalie, Jennifer Pugliesie at fullback, and Erica Spooner at wing, all entered the season with the excitement and the energy to win. The girls were led by Coach Tim O'Donnell, who has successfully led our boys soccer team to many victorious seasons. The raw ability and talent of our girls soccer team is what enabled them to establish this winning tradition.

Rising to the Top of B-South

The boys track team had a tough time beating their 1985 record; they were Group III State Champs. Coach Ridley looked forward to another successful season. Ridley expected to top B-South, and he had hopes of another chance at the State Championship. The team participated in the Ocean County and Shore Conference meets. Runners to watch are senior Herbie Williams and juniors Jack Boylan, Paul Johnson, and Billy Gee. Overall the team is confident and will uphold its reputation as a first class championship team.

In 1986 the girls track team was looking great. The entire team, less one of last year's seniors, is returned in top form. Most of the girls trained through the course of the year by running cross country in the fall and indoor in the winter.

Coach Flood believed that the season will be successful with seniors Teleea Brown, Lisa Moody, Lisa Burkett, and Deanne Nafziger. Teleea is the team's top sprinter and jumps hurdles with ease. Lisa Moody runs the 100 and 200 like a pro. As a middle distance runner, Lisa Burkett is solid and dependable. In the weights division, Deanne Nafziger is consistent and very experienced.

Coach Flood believes his team to be very competitive. That competitive edge has put them above Class B-South and into the winners circle.

A New Chance

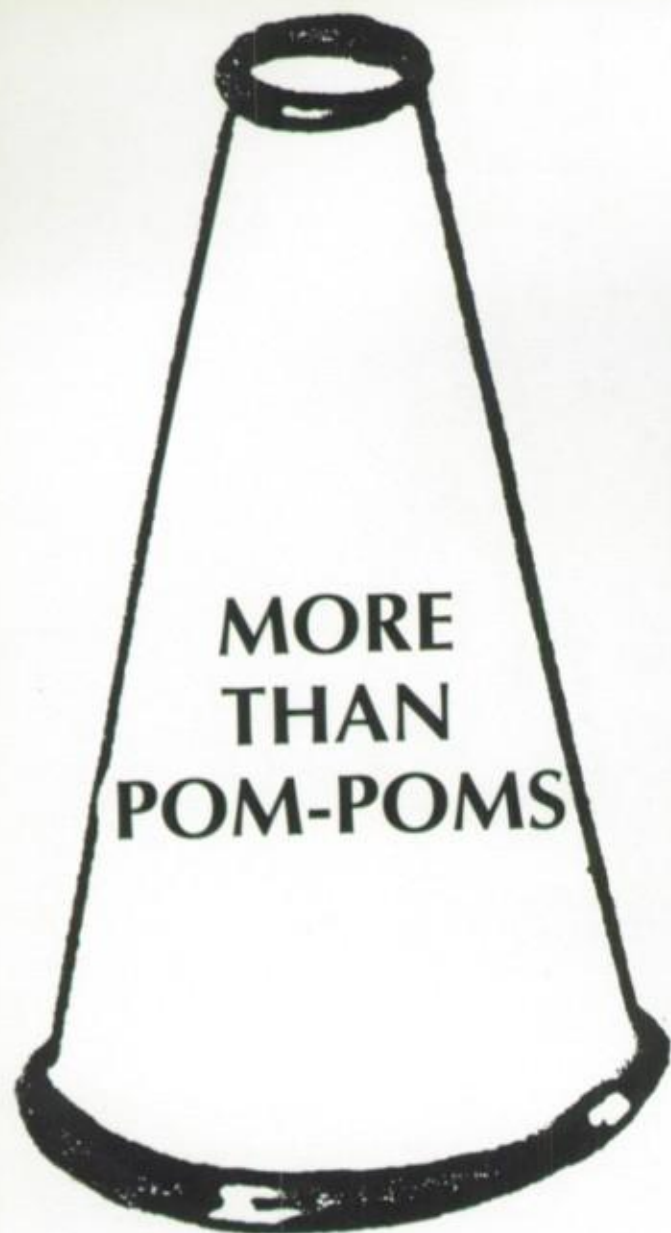

Tennis: the only game where love is nothing. The 1986 Boys Tennis Team has high hopes. With some of last year's players and one new man, their hopes become a reality. This "new" man is sophomore Sagar Andalkar. Last year he played for CBA and was ranked 5th in the state. His transfer to Lakewood has given Coaches Todd and Terres someone new to work with. They believe that Sagar will inspire the team to improve. Seniors to watch are Mike Rosenmertz, Erik Collazo and Adam Gang. Junior Patrick Gill is also a strong asset. With determination and sweat they are sure to meet success.

On the freezing cold football field or in the unbearably stuffy gym, the Lakewood High School Varsity Cheerleaders give their all to root on our teams.

Led by captains Sherri Wyatt, Tammi Gartenberg, and Terri Gartenberg, the squad performs at every football game, basketball game, and pep-rally. Cheerleading is no part-time job either. The girls practice for hours on end to perfect their moves. Their cheers motivate the people in the stands to shout and inspire the boys on the field or court to win. As one can see, there is much more to our cheerleaders than pom-poms and friendly smiles. They are important to the spirit and well being of all Lakewood High School students.

One of the brighter parts of our Kaleidoscope is the very first day of the school year. For seniors it is the first step towards graduation; for freshmen, it is the first step into four years of making memories to last a lifetime. Our first day was full of excitement, gossip, and a little bit of surprise. The summer had come to a close and we were ready — almost ready, anyway — to jump into a new school year. There was a mix of emotions; while sad to see the summer go, we were excited to see how this new year would turn out. So, we set our alarms, set our hair, and set out for that long walk to the bus stop; the more fortunate ones only had a short hop to the car. As we reached the school we caught a glimpse of all the friends we had left behind the year before; this gave us a little consolation in giving up the sun'n'surf. Suddenly it hit us: school — that meant classes and, even worse, new teachers to break in. New books and desks to scribble on; new friends to make, and most important, new clothes to buy!

Big 'n Baggy

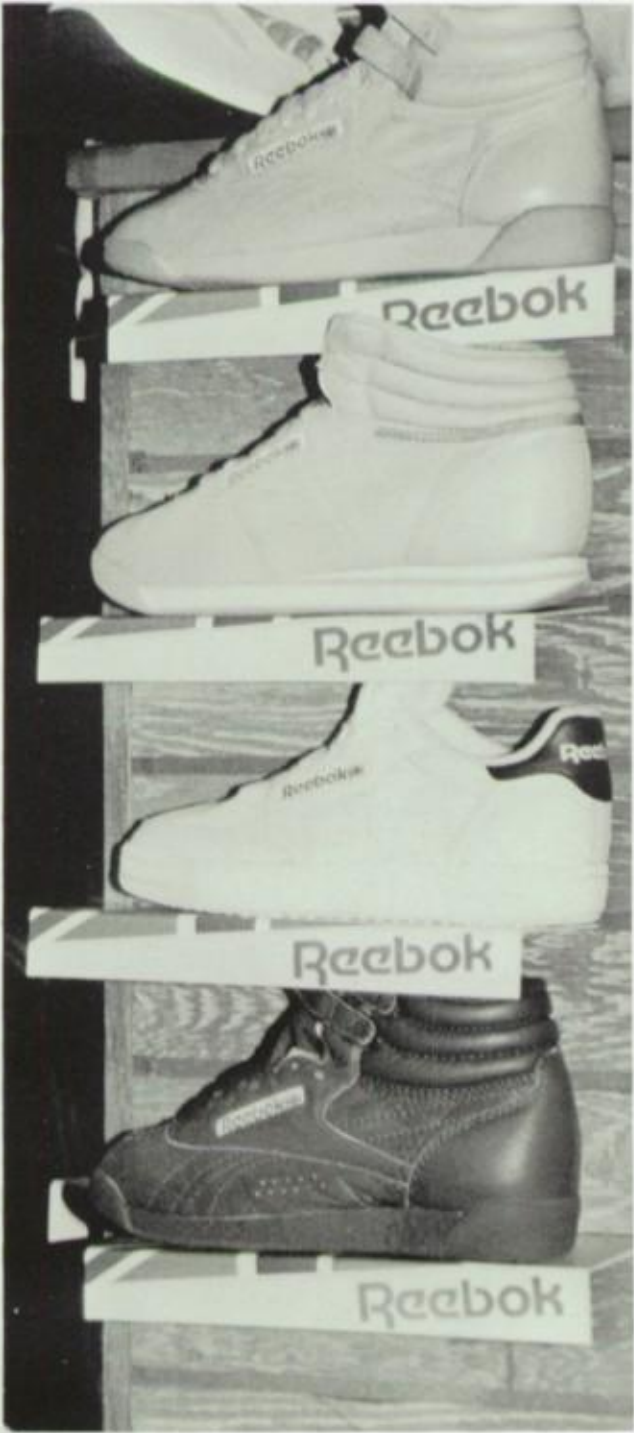

As the saying goes, "clothes make the man," and in Lakewood High School's case, it made for a student body as diverse as the personalities that inspired them. Fashion trends came by influences both old and new. Gucci and Guess exploded with popularity; everywhere you looked there were Gucci purses and Guess jeans. Another new item came in the form of shoes, sneakers to be exact. Reeboks were on the feet of almost everyone. Whether you were athletic or not, if you had fashionable feet you owned a pair of Reeboks. New footwear also came in the form of a sort of "shoe-boot." Coming to the ankle, these boots complimented any outfit, for they were available in a wide spectrum of colors. It was even more a year of old fashion influences, though. Paisley was back in force. Shirts, pants, ties, sweaters and even watches wore paisley designs. Another "in" old style was big and baggy. Back from the 1950's, big shirts and sweaters topped the fashion list while over-sized skirts and baggy pants followed right along; anything several sizes bigger than yourself was in! Now to top the whole look off, you needed a fashionable hairstyle. Shorter hair was all the rave, with the bob topping the list. If you wanted to go even higher, you added a popular beret! 1986 was a year when old met new and both combined to form a distinct new '80's look!

Adjective of the 80's

Right: Phil Collins' solo activities accelerated his career, making him a top pop artist. Top: Tears for Fears rocked MTV with videos off their Songs For The Big Chair Album. Bottom: Glen Frey had Smuggler's Blues on both MTV and the hit show Miami Vice.

Videos are an '80's innovation. Giving people a view of what they had only heard, videos express the views, ideas and opinions of the artists who perform them. In 1986 many performers who excited our ears and eyes a year ago came back with new songs that shot to the top of the charts. Phil Collins with "Sussudio" and "In the Air Tonight" made sure that he wasn't left behind in '85. Pat Benatar added to her string of consistent hits with "Sex as a weapon." Putting the Police aside, Sting debuted as a solo artist. His video "Russians" is original in its realistic approach to nuclear war. Huey Lewis and the News continued their successful career as they told the world about the "Power of Love." for people who couldn't get enough Miami Vice on Friday nights, Glen Frey included clips from the show in his video "You Belong to the City." While the experienced artists worked hard, the new artists had to work twice as hard just to get noticed. Love songs have become run-of-the-mill but, Whitney Houston's "Saving All My Love For You" and "How Will I Know?" give us a fresh look at an old stand-by.

A-Ha! reached a new height of creativity when their videos "Take On Me" and later "The Sun Always Shines On T.V." in animated graphics. The overseas invasion of the American Video scene continued in 1986. The smooth sound of Mr. Mister's "Broken Wings" drifted into American ears and the video grabbed the attention of all who watched. Sade, sounding polished and professional, breezed into 1986 and delivered the "Sweetest Taboo." Simple Minds varied their video style with "Alive & Kickin'" mountain scene and the concert clips of "Sanctify Yourself." Billy Ocean used movie personalities Kathleen Turner, Danny DeVito, and Michael Douglas to back him up in the song "When the Going Gets Tough," in order to promote the movie soundtrack.

Videos are not only on MTV. Nor are they limited to music. Everyday people turn on their television and see video forms in commercials. Whether it's Lionel Ritchie selling Pepsi or singing cows selling milk, it's still video. Commercials and MTV have not only caused video to become an exciting art form, but also to become the adjective of the 80's.

A new arrival to the music scene, Whitney Houston sparked our hearts with "You Give Good Love," "How Will I Know," and "Saving All My Love." A sweet voice made her one of the best in 1986.

The one-time drummer from Genesis saw his solo career skyrocket. He likened himself to all sorts of people by performing at Live Aid in England and then, after hopping onto a Concorde, again in Philadelphia. His debut album contained such hits as "Sussudio," "Don't Lose My Number," and "One More Night."

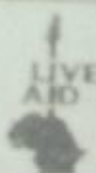

New from England this year was Tears For Fears. Their album Songs from the Big Chair made people "Shout" and fall "Head over Heels" in love with a group that may one day "Rule the World." Don't be surprised if in the years to come they are still topping the charts because Tears for Fears doesn't plan on giving up the "Big Chair."

The Dream of the Blue Turtles was a combination of political opinions and good-humored fun. "Russians" and "We Worked the Black Team" discussed the horrors of nuclear power and war. "Children's Crusade" expressed Sting's abhorance of sending young boys to war. On the lighter side, "Love in the Seventh Wave" and "If you Love Someone" declared love as the ultimate cure-all.

Rap to Rock-Music is its own Kaleidoscope

Over the years music has played a major role in life at L.H.S. Traditionally music, as a form of expression, gives society a release from everyday life, helping us to escape stressful monotony. In 1986 music transcended its traditional boundaries; it not only soothed the mind, it also fed the body. Famine relief groups such as Band-Aid, Live-Aid, Northern Lights, and U.S.A. for Africa, supplied food and clothing for third world countries. Recording artists took a collective stand in world politics by forming Artists United Against Apartheid; "Sun City," performed by the coalition, urged entertainers everywhere to boycott the South African Sun City resort oasis.

Left: Bruce Springsteen's Born in the U.S.A. rode a wave of patriotism to the top of the charts. Above: Sun City was not just another "cause" record. It delivered an important political message with a great beat.

Duos made a mark in 1986. Diagnosing common depression, Bryan Adams and Tina Turner told the public "It's Only Love." A combination of pop and rock, "Love Bazaar" was performed by the "bizarre" twosome of Sheila E. and Prince. Joining the duet crew, Madonna released "Sidewalk Talk" with her longtime friend Jellybean Benitez. In the not-so-distant past; love songs took a backseat to upbeat music. However, affairs of the heart have once again found their places in the heart of music. Freddie Jackson led the comeback of love with "You Are My Lady." But the most listened to and cried over love song in Lakewood was "I Miss You" by Klymaxx. Completing the slow tune parade was Lionel Richie. "Say You Say Me" touched everyone because it dealt with the most precious kind of love — friendship.

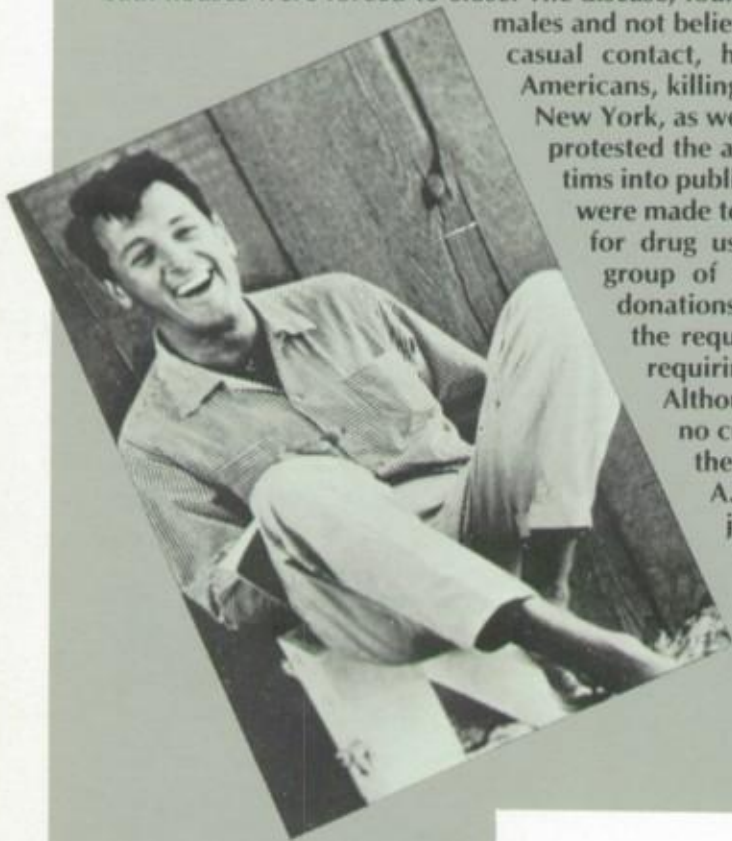

The musical scope of Lakewood would not be complete without beat-box music. "Ladi Dadi" was a terrific success and the careers of M.C. Rickey D. and Doug E. Fresh, the human beat box, took off. Still popular of course were Run DMC, and the Force MD's. The music tastes in Lakewood range from the sublime to the absurd, but it is this variety that makes Lakewood High School the Kaleidoscope it is.

World-Wide Altruism

Rising Fear

Without question, the biggest health story of the year concerned the disease A.I.D.S. (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome), a fatal disease which attacks the body's defense system. Fear of the disease caused many changes in American society. Prejudices against gays increased and many homosexual bath houses were forced to close. The disease, found mostly in homosexual males and not believed to be transmitted by casual contact, has struck over 12,000 Americans, killing almost half of them. In New York, as well as other cities, people protested the admission of A.I.D.S. victims into public school systems. Efforts were made to provide sterile syringes for drug users, the second largest group of A.I.D.S. victims. Blood donations decreased, along with the request for optional surgery requiring blood transfusions. Although research continues, no cure or apparent cause of the disease has been found. A.I.D.S. has become a major issue and has greatly affected the lives of the American people.

The Tragic Struggle

The most tragic story of the year occurred in South Africa. The struggle between blacks and whites over apartheid has claimed many lives and became uglier by the minute. Apartheid is the official policy of the Republic of South Africa, which enforces racial segregation and the maintainance of white supremacy. The ruling of a white minority over the black majority has caused many problems. What was at first taken for a civil-rights movement in South Africa has turned into a race war. The white government has no desire to turn control of the resource — rich country over to the black majority. The African National Congress, the major antiapartheid party in South Africa, has been banned since 1960 and the government has refused to deal with it.

South African blacks are fighting hard for their rights. They have rallied to try and free 67 year old Nelson Mandela, former leader of the ANC, now a rallying point for black opposition. Men like Bishop Desmond Tutu, 1984 Nobel Prize winner and Anglican bishop of Johannesburg, have served as leaders of the black movement. Peaceful efforts have been attempted but have often been forced to turn to violence. It is greatly hoped that apartheid will soon end, giving the blacks the right to a voice in their government.

"Eliminate the Distrust"

In late November, 1985, the leaders of the two most important and most powerful nations in the world met for the first time in six years in Geneva, Switzerland. The summit meeting between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev was eagerly anticipated but produced no new methods of arms control. The focal point of the conference was the U.S.'s proposed Strategic Defense Initiative, popularly known as "Star Wars." The Soviets viewed this as a threat to their safety, although President Reagan insisted that it was only a protective shield. The goal of both leaders was to "eliminate the distrust" between the two superpowers and to limit destructive weapons. The "open labs" system in which both countries could inspect the strategic defense work done by the other, was also toyed with. As expected, nothing productive was accomplished concerning arms disputes; however, relations between the two leaders were opened and an attempt to understand the conflicting cultures of the two countries was made.

Born in the U.S.A.

A much-needed, long awaited turn towards patriotism occurred this past year. This was the most evident in the entertainment world, in particular the movie and music industries. In the movies, Rocky returned playing America's answer to Russia's superman, Ivan Drago. The movie was adorned with red, white, and blue, but attempted to ease Soviet-American relations. After a victory in Russia, Rocky addresses an exuberant Russian crowd, delivering a speech on living in harmony. The movie "White Nights" also concentrated on the Soviet-American relations, with a friendship of two male dancers, one of which is a Soviet and the other an American. Bruce Springsteen's "Born In The U.S.A." album was the biggest of the year, despite being slighted by the Grammys. James Brown's "Living In America," a patriotic salute to the freedom available in the U.S.A. became a hit. It was, of course, on the soundtrack of Rocky IV. It was refreshing to see the move toward patriotism and the pride of America.

Hope in Song

ETHIOPIA NOW

The year 1985 was one in which some unfortunate people were helped by those more fortunate. The famine which struck Ethiopia was the target of relief efforts by musicians and other concerned citizens of the world. Band Aid, a collection of British and American artists organized by the Boomtown Rats' Bob Geldof, released the "Do They Know It's Christmas" record, donating all proceeds to Ethiopia. American Artists later released the "We Are The World" single, donating their proceeds to the malnourished in America and Ethiopia. These efforts were culminated in the summer with the Live Aid concert, which was held in both J.F.K. Stadium in Philadelphia and Wembley Stadium in London. Efforts were made to use money raised for Ethiopia to build up the country's ability to produce food. It was realized that simply donating food to a starving nation was potentially more harmful than good, hence the effort to build up the country's self-sufficiency. The work done by the people of the world to aid unfortunate people was a bright spot in the usual dinginess of the world's events.

Senseless Horror

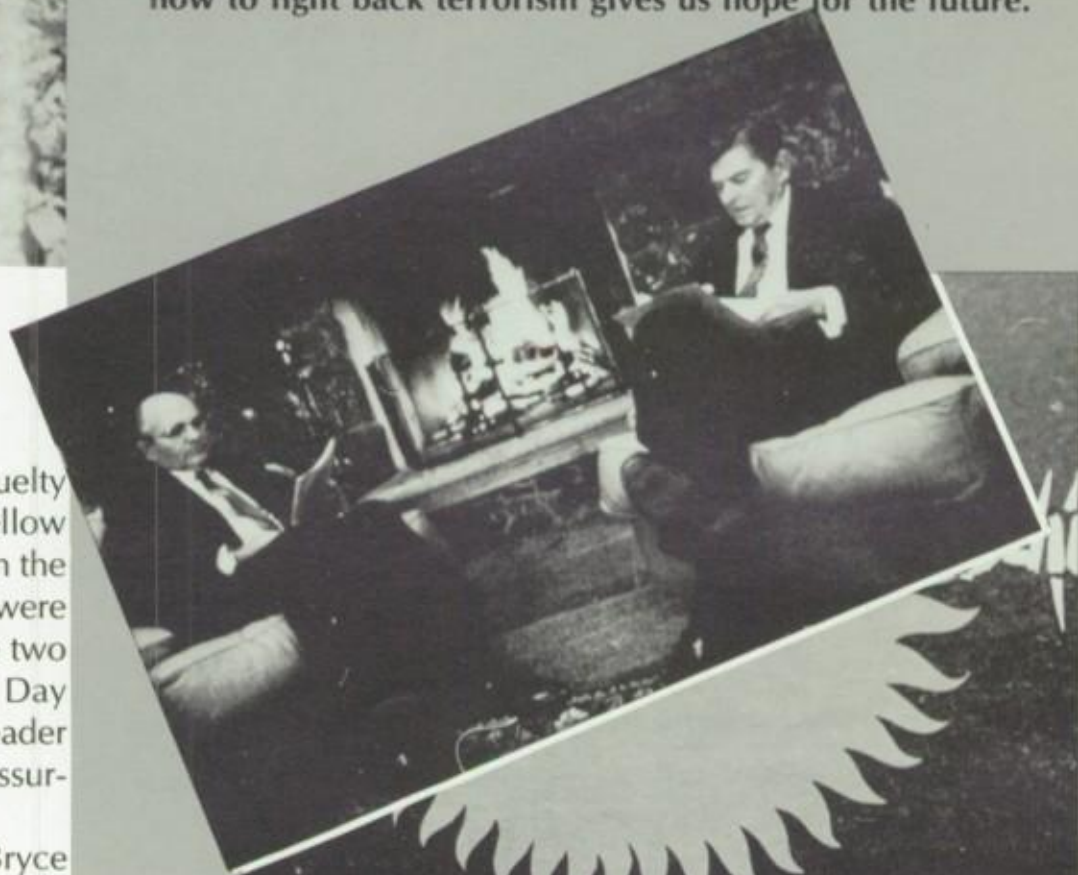

As power-minded individuals seek power, the frequency of terrorism increases. There seems to be a growing trend towards terrorism in the world, particularly in hostage taking, senseless killings, and hijacking.

As is the tradition with terrorism, many innocent individuals lose their lives. In El Salvador, 13 people were gunned down, 6 of them Americans, while sitting in a sidewalk cafe. The low regard for life held by these terrorists was evidenced by their pride in claiming responsibility for the slaughter. On June 14, 1985, TWA flight 847 was hijacked by Lebanese Shiites in Beirut. Over 35 Americans were taken prisoner. Swearing not to make mistakes similar to President Carter's during the hostage crisis in Iran, President Reagan vowed not to submit to terrorists. Terrorism is increasing at an alarming rate, but the strong attitude taken by President Reagan and new ideas on how to fight back terrorism gives us hope for the future.

Rising Hopes

The year was a puzzling one, one which showed both the cruelty in man's soul and man's ability to care for and give to his fellow man. It was a year which seemed to produce a partial ease in the tension between the United States and Russia. Positive steps were taken to try and form an understanding of the people in the two diverse superpowers, as evidenced by the New Year's Day goodwill messages from President Reagan and the Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. The progress shown towards peace is reassuring and gives us a hope for a better tomorrow.

PINER PRIDE and SPIRIT

Pep Rallies and Lakewood High School go hand in hand.

They give the student body an opportunity to demonstrate its Piner pride and spirit, not only in each class, but also in the entire school. The optimism brought on by the yelling and shouting expresses the crowd's appreciation as well as encourages the Piner sportsmen to do their best. Pep rallies become livelier during Spirit Week, when competition is very evident. Spirit Week is a major event that adds variety to student life. To many students, it is an annual tradition which acts as an essential part of the school year. It is a time when pride and spirit are at a fever high. Participation is crucial in order to be the number "1" class as well as to have a good time. Because of the many different events, being part of Spirit Week isn't difficult. The week's activities include Hat Day, Button Day, Sweats Day, Inside-Out Day, Blue & White Day, Olympic Day, the decorating of hallways, the building of floats and the bonfire, the canned food drive, and pep rallies. In the inter-class competition, the Sophomores surprised many of their peers. However, the Seniors played it on the "cool and laid-back side"; they were able to win the float contest and to be worthy opponents to the underclassmen of the school. Because of the cut-throat competition this year, some people forgot to show good sportsmanship and got a little carried away as they tore down the four hallway displays. In the past, hallways had been respected with correct propriety. Despite this one downer, Spirit Week was a success and the football team won the Thanksgiving Game. The tradition of Pep Rallies and Spirit Week has been and always will be upheld because it adds variety to student life at Lakewood High School. — Grace Gruela

TRADITION BURNING BRIGHT

For Lakewood High School the bonfire is probably one of the most popular and exciting times of the school year. It symbolizes the togetherness of the student body and the high spirit Lakewood High School always seems to generate. The bonfire brings the students, teachers, and alumni together in celebration, and marks the preparation for the traditional Thanksgiving Day football game against Toms River South. This night also brings a close the flurry of activities during the annual Spirit Week. After weeks of preparation, class floats are paraded through downtown Lakewood. After a week of friendly competition between the classes, the hard work pays off; this year the senior class took first place in the float activities. For the seniors it brings an ending to all our hard work for the class, but it is accompanied by a new spirit of unity. While standing around the bonfire, one cannot help but feel the friendship and excitement in the air. This is a very special tradition at Lakewood, one that we will look back on with fond memories.

Along with the bonfire activities is Homecoming. During Spirit Week, students vote for those whom they would like to have represent the school in the parade prior to the bonfire. This year's king and queen, Joey Bryce and Lisa Moody, expressed their great excitement when their names were announced at the dance that night. The Homecoming festivities, along with the bonfire, hold a special place in the hearts of all Lakewood students, past and present.

Food Fads

Candy was one of the biggest foods in Lakewood High School with M&M's topping the list. M&M's were so popular they even created a holiday version with all of the candies colored green and red. It was a fad that touched all.

When students dared to go into the cafeteria, they frequently got lunch from the big, change-eating vending machines. They offered the usual cookie/potato chip fare and in '86 a juice machine was added to the selection.

Whether it was for a plate of pizza, fries, or just to hang out, the Regent Diner was always the center of Lakewood social life.

Gourmet food came in all forms in 1986, with pasta heading the list. Low calorie lasagna, manicotti, shells, or any type of pasta for that

To get a taste of Italian cuisine, Lakewood High School students went to Three Brothers from Italy; and whether you went for a quick bite or a full meal,

The biggest battle in the food world was the soda war. "Crisp taste", "low sodium," and "no caffeine" were the magic phrases in '86, and whoever created the catchiest phrase would come out on top.

Dairy Whip will always be remembered for its contribution to the over all flavor of Lakewood's is food.

Gourmet food was in, whether from our local Shop Rite or even our "better Bloomingdale's." T.V. dinners were no longer your average meat and potatoes fare. In '86 they reached such heights as chicken kiev and fettuchini primavera. And after we gorged ourselves on these feasts we turned to diet everything to take off the inches. Diet food had a new zip to it in '86. Gone were the days of after-taste and cottage cheese, and in were days of great-tasting dinners and an incredible new sweetener called nutrasweet. Everywhere we looked small red spirals flashed before our eyes. Nutrasweet symbols could be found on everything from soda to hot chocolate, and from jell-o to vitamins. That was the national scene and it affected all of our lives, but here in Lakewood we had our own "food fetishes." Here in school, the magic word was candy. Snickers, Milky Ways, Peanut Butter Cups, and especially M&M's. M&M's were everywhere. It got to the point where the whole school could be heard munching. And if you dared, you could even venture into the cafeteria to find out what the mystery meat of the day was.

Lakewood also had a wide variety of places to eat. The Regent Diner was just a few hops away and McDonald's just a step away from there. For the sweet tooth there was Dunkin' Donuts and Dairy Whip, and for the food connoisseur there were such restaurant greats as Winkelman's and Casa Vecchio's!

COSBY AND COP CHIC

T.V. splashed into 1986 with a style that was fast-paced and ultra chic. It was the series which moved quickly and looked good that would gain the ratings in '86. Low-key plots, fast-paced action, and new wave music all combined to form a look and feel which had not been seen on the television screen before. It was this new approach which gave T.V. a new flavor and gave the audience a sense of excitement.

The word in 1986 was prime time. Prime time was no longer looked at as a collection of low budget skits. Some programs were so advanced that they were practically mini-movies. Shows such as Twilight Zone and Amazing Stories grew from simple scripts and scenery to twists and special effects that could have put the movie industry to shame. 1986 prime time television delighted our senses and set a precedent for future years to follow.

Daytime television was a big part of Lakewood High School T.V. sets too. Probably one of the biggest parts of daytime viewing came in the form of soaps; those "mind-vegetating" and addictive day time serials that had many a teenager glued to the set every afternoon. Whether it was the antics of the Quartermains on General Hospital or the passion of Pete and Melissa on Days of Our Lives, the 1986 soap opera had everyone talking.

But maybe even a bigger part of afternoon viewing was the loyal old rerun. Students at L.H.S. had seen the Brady Bunch and Gilligan's Island so many times that we could practically recite them in our sleep. And when it came to the reruns of such cartoon favorites as Bugs Bunny and the Flintstones, even the most mature person knew how each episode would turn out. No matter which way your television dial turned you switched on hours of excitement and entertainment. The old sitcoms and reruns were still watched with a fever, but it was the sleekness of the Miami Vices and the warm comedy of the Cosby Shows which really characterized the 1986 television season.

One T.V. series which best displays the new 80's excitement was Miami Vice. Its fast-moving action and spectacular scenery caught the audience's attention and boosted ratings consistently into the top ten. Vivid use of imagery and appropriate placement of pop and upbeat music entranced the viewer and kept the audience constantly on the edge of its seat. Leading men Don Johnson and Philip Michael Thomas lit up the screen with their good looks and hot acting, and brought Miami Vice its chic edge. The series focused on drug smuggling in Southern Florida and centered around the cases of Sonny Crockett and Richardo Rublis. Both had been wound in intrigue almost all of their lives and both fought for what they believed was right, no matter what the cost. It was through the efforts of the men behind these characters that added much of the spice that made Miami Vice such a hot program.

Golden Girls broke the mold of the old stereotype of senior citizens and soon became the toast of T.V. The series celebrated the lives of three "over-fifty" women and traced their antics from week to week. Golden Girls gave the public a new awareness of age and growing old. The show proved that over fifty doesn't mean dead; on the contrary, the women in this show were more more active than girls half their age. Golden Girls helped to liberate America's views of the aging and had the country in stitches at the same time. It was the caring and understanding by which the plots were approach that made Golden Girls the hit that it was.

The brilliance of two actors shone through prime time on the ABC detective series, Moonlighting. Newcomer Bruce Willis and ex-model, Sybil Shepherd combined to form a chemistry that was fresh and exciting and it was this chemistry that boosted the show to the top of the Nielsons!

Murder She Wrote paralleled the series, Golden Girls in that it too had a "senior" star. Again, this symbolized the 80's movement to a better feeling about aging. The show involved twisted plots of intrigue and murder and always heralded an all-star cast. Angela Lansbury did a fantastic job portraying a free-lance mystery writer who "always got her man!" It was interesting to see an unfolding murder plot and realize many parallels between her novel and the crime itself.

The Cosby Show, in contrast with such series as Miami Vice, had nothing to do with fast cars and racy women; it had to do with the every day experiences of a family — a very funny family! Every Thursday night at eight o'clock the country stopped to watch Bill Cosby work his magic in the role of Heathcliff Huxtable. The Cosby Show weaved a tale of ordinary family life with the comedy that goes hand in hand with children growing up. Through the Huxtable family, each and every one of us was up on the television screen on Thursday night. We watched their "goofs" and failures and remembered our own. It was this ability to relate with the characters that enabled us to laugh at ourselves.

1986 was a year in which different movie shades of attraction came together to form a spectrum that kept audiences entertained all year long.

The year gave a new meaning to the word action. Movies like Rambo: First Blood Part II and Commando made the red spectrum of the movie scene; red standing for blood and violence. Rambo centered around a Vietnam vet who goes back to rescue MIA soldiers and to seek vengeance. Commando starred the famous actor/body builder Arnold Schwarzenegger; when he was in a movie everybody watched. Either way, if you liked high packed action you couldn't go wrong with these movies. Another color which characterized '86 movies was white, for innocence. Movies like White Nights and Agnes of God symbolized the trend of innocent amongst a world that is against them. In White Nights the innocents come in the form of two dancers, played by Mikhail Baryshnikov and Gregory Hines, pitted against the "evils" of communism.

Agnes of God centered around the plight of an innocent young nun thrust into pregnancy.

The Color Purple displayed the admiralty, the strength of a woman who brought herself out from the depths of ignorance and up to a level of self-respect. The director, Steven Spielberg, worked in purple hues of regalness and stateliness with a woman with the courage to over-step her own limitations.

Rocky IV heralded all that was red, white, and blue. The ongoing Rocky Ballboa story now offered a new and refreshing element, this being patriotism. Through Rocky's individual struggle with the Russian fighter, the country related their own anti-Russian sentiments. It was a movie which drew the whole country closer.

Black humor was presented in the film, Better Off Dead, a comedy in which everything could, and did, go wrong. Other comedies this year were Pee Wee's Big Adventure and Jewel of the Nile. Everybody's favorite nerd lit up the screen in Pee Wee's Big Adventure, and talk of Pee Wee went on in the school for months. Jewel of the Nile, sequel to Romancing the Stone, continues the adventures of Jack T. Kolton and Joan Wilder.

Probably the most popular types of movies with LHS students were the ones which catered to them. These were the young stars of the "brat packs." John Hughes' films were probably the most popular of these and in 86' his Pretty in Pink proved this fact. Andrew McCarthy and Molly Ringwald did a fantastic job of conveying the "pink" hues of being a teenager. Teen idol Michael J. Fox also has great success with Back to the Future, about a futuristic-car that transports a present-day teen back to the past. Rob Lowe skated into all our hearts in Youngblood. Centered around the experiences of a seventeen year old hockey player, the movie scored highly at the box office.

The 1986 movie scene was a collage of colors.

Our Hometown

As we sit from day to day in the seats of L.H.S., we often forget to recognize how special our surroundings really are. The town of Lakewood has been expanding and growing by leaps and bounds. As improvements in the heart of town continue, Lakewood is revived. The Strand Theatre had been completely renovated and has brought to our town such cultural acts as Ain't Misbehavin', and other Broadway productions, as well as performances by various orchestras and ballet companies. Living in the town, and seeing the same surroundings day after day, we rarely realize how interesting the town of Lakewood really is. If we recall what the town looked like five years ago and in 1991, see what it is then, we will realize how truly timeless and priceless our days in Lakewood are.

One Special Evening

May 10, 1985 was not just a typical Friday night for last year's Junior class. It was an evening long awaited by everyone, ever since the first day of high school. What else could it be but the Junior Prom, a date on the calendar circled in red, along with class ring day. Much time and preparation went into the event. Many girls chose to have their dresses made, while the guys stuck to the traditional renting of the tuxedo. Couples danced to the theme "When I'm With You," but this year the prom was unlike any other. Instead of the Prom song being sung by the band or played by a D.J. it was sung, to everyone's surprise by three juniors: Joey Bryce, Stacey Siegel, and Jami Tamburrino. Held at the Mooring, pictures, dinner and plenty of dancing were part of the affair, leaving the rest of the evening to pursue other social activities.

The morning of February 11th began with the question of whether or not the A.P. History trip to Washington D.C. would be cancelled due to snow. Fortunately, the radio announced that the 26 class members, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Liptzin would still leave at 7:00 a.m. for the capital. The class, immediately following the 4 hour bus ride, went directly to the Pentagon for a lecture/question and answer period. Similar discussions were held during the week at the French and Israeli embassies, the State Department, Labor Department, as well as the offices of Congressman Howard and Senators Frank Lautenberg and Bill Bradley. Terrorism, Graham-Rudman, and other economic policies, nuclear war, toxic waste, and a wide variety of controversial issues were discussed in depth. Days were filled with tours of museums and the usual tourist attractions such as the Lincoln and Vietnam memorials, the White House, Library of Congress, the Capitol building, and Fords theater. Even though the days began early and were without breaks, when students returned to the hotel they always managed to catch their second wind. Dinners were at the restaurant of one's choice, and the class was given opportunities to spend several hours in Georgetown or the city, and some still made plans to stay at the hotel. New friendships evolved, as did further knowledge of our government and world. Those on the trip will always remember the questions, tours, and lectures, as well as the lighter side of the trip which included dinner on the 17th floor, elevators, room service, a Valentine's day party, night life, toilet bowls, and especially the ice! The days and nights will always come to mind as being very long and tiresome, but still a great deal of fun.

Forever '86

Lakewood High School has always been unique among local schools. The variety of interest among students is what makes us original. While many area schools follow fads and trends, Lakewood possesses a style all its own. The preceding section gives you a glimpse inside Lakewood. The Student Life section could, if given the space, fill a book. Looking back twenty years from now, if you pick up this yearbook and smile because of all the things that were "in" in 1986, this section will have served its purpose. Our music, fashion, and current events will be forgotten in years to come. While this section on Student life has come to an end, our lives in 1986 will live forever within its pages.

With Special Thanks to:

- Linz Photographers: Whether shooting or developing pictures, their help, support, and cooperation made every picture in this yearbook possible.
- The L.H.S. Secretarial Staff: By typing letters, letting us at the mailboxes, or providing us with needed information, they made many tedious tasks alot easier.
- Our Patrons : Their generous support allowed us to add those "special effects" to our yearbook.
- Mrs. Loefflad, Mrs. Liptzin, Mrs. Brady, and the rest of the Library staff: We constantly invaded their library, and still they gave us all their help and cooperation every second, everyday.
- David Karu: Typing, proofreading, and photography — all the things he did to help us meet our deadlines are greatly appreciated.
- Extra Special Thanks to Mr. MacFarland: Whose time and guidance could have been replaced by no one. Without him this book would not have been possible.
- The Rest of the MacFarland Family: For donating their husband/father; but especially to Mrs. MacFarland, whose fantastic Christmas cookies helped us through the December deadline.

Athena,
 Hey girl, what's up?
 Don't forget our Junior 4th. All the ranks, The non Matching socks, Robert's stories
 The Pageant was definitely an experience and I'm glad I could share it w/ you. Remember Boykin (Buttlick), The ever popular Derrick his numbers 4, 11, 17, 44 etc, etc. Be good stay in touch.
 P.S. Your sick crazy, inverted and I like that in a person

Athena,
 Even though we were never really close. I'm so glad to call you my friend!

I love you
 Jack

Athena,
Hi you Greek goddess (Ma-ta). I'm glad we're still friends this year! You made algebra more interesting, and lunch too! Have a great summer. Keep in touch over the summer (304-5766).
Your so nice! Call me -
Love, Yvette

Athena, we had so much fun at the S.A.T.'s. I hope we can become better friends next year. There is so much left to come!!!
Love,
Rene

Athena,
Good luck next year in 12th
Hope I don't see you over the summer (dub)
Have a Nice Sum.

Dear Athena, (Mona Lisa) Too bad we weren't in any classes together this year. But we had our fun times in gym.
Everybody thinks you know that you are really crazy. We have one more year and we'll have a great time. So have a great summer and give me a call sometime.
(367-9430)

Love,
Carmen Valle

Athena, what is up?
Hey! What's good?
We had some good times together. I'm sorry I didn't have a good friendship this year. I'll miss you. K.I.T. 363-7001

Veronica
P.S. I won't forget you.

Dear
Athena,
I can't believe we're finally going to be seniors! I agree.
Things are not the same since Steve + Doug left but I hope we can catch glimpses of them over the summer. You're a sweet person + a great friend. Have a great summer, I hope we can get together!!
Keep in touch

Athena,
It's been a pretty good year, but Senior year will be great!
I'm glad we had a chance to become friends. We've been through a lot together (SAT's)!
Have a great Summer,
Love
Shere

Dear Athena,

It has been a very interesting year but I am glad that we worked out our differences and became friends. I hope that we can continue our friendship next year and in future years. Good Luck next year as a Senior. I can't believe that we made it. Hopefully we will have some classes next year (maybe even Marching Band But I won't count on it would you). Have a terrific summer and keep in touch. 363-8311

Love Always
Jill

P.S. Erin wants to become friends

P.P.S. Don't let her see.

Athena-

I won't see you next year but that's okay because this year was fun-
Keep smiling!

Good Luck Always

Love
Christine
